Celebrate International Food Photography and Film Day 2015

Time for a Sociable Feast!

International Food Photography and Film Day takes place on Thursday 12 November 2015 - a day to celebrate food photography and film in a caring sharing way. Why not put together a smorgasbord of food and celebrate your favourite food cultures with family and friends. ☺

We hope our Food for Sharing theme for 2015 will inspire you to take a winning shot or film of your favourite feast. Wherever you are on Thursday 12 November, you can create your own food masterpiece. Looking for inspiration, see our Food for the Family and Food for Celebration Finalists' gallery

The hamper is bursting with delicious goodies, including biscuits, chocolates, preserves and even a Christmas pudding and mince pies, just in time for yuletide festivities. Please note contents may vary subject to customs requirements dependent upon the country of residence of the winner. Please visit the website for the T&Cs

Pictures and films on phones or cameras, whatever comes to hand, make this a day to remember, for an art form that has been around, astonishingly, for more than 150 years, recording and celebrating all aspects of the earth's bounty.
